

J-2 Employment Authorization

J-2 dependents seeking employment authorization

Revised: 10/07/2019

A J-2 dependent may apply for employment authorization through U.S. Citizenship & Immigration Services (USCIS). Employment authorization is not guaranteed and must be approved by USCIS.

ELIGIBILITY FOR J-2 EMPLOYMENT AUTHORIZATION

- Currently maintaining valid J-2 non-immigrant status, including maintenance of health insurance
 - J-1 is currently maintaining valid non-immigrant status, including maintenance of health insurance
 - Wages earned by J-2 will not be used to support the educational needs of the J-1
 - J-2 has not engaged in any unauthorized employment
 - Must submit the application to USCIS from within the U.S.
- ◇ While application is pending:
- You may not engage in any employment
- ◇ If employment authorization is approved:
- Employment Authorization Document (EAD) card will be issued with firm start and end dates. You may only work within these dates. You must have the card to legally begin employment.
 - Make a copy of the EAD card for your permanent records
 - Required to update current U.S. residential address with USCIS if you move (www.uscis.gov)
- ◇ If employment authorization is denied:
- You may not engage in any employment
 - Consult with an ISS advisor. (You will receive an official denial notice from USCIS.)

DATES OF J-2 EMPLOYMENT AUTHORIZATION

- J-2 employment authorization may be granted for up to four years, although USCIS generally approves one year at a time
- An extension of employment authorization may be filed no more than 180 days prior to current EAD card end date
 - I-765: “renewal of my permission to accept employment”
- Employment authorization cannot exceed the J-1 program duration as indicated on the DS-2019

J-2 EMPLOYMENT RESTRICTIONS

- There are no employment restrictions in terms of the type of employment that you can accept
- There are no restrictions on the number of hours per week you are allowed to work

SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER (SSN)

- An SSN is required for payroll purposes and can be requested once the EAD card has been issued for J-2 employment
- J-2 must apply in person at the Social Security Administration office. The following documents are required:
 - J-2 passport, visa, I-94, DS-2019, EAD card, and SS-5 application (found at www.ssa.gov)
 - J-1 DS-2019

TAXES

- Earnings of a J-2 dependent are subject to federal, state, local, and Social Security tax withholding
- Taxes must be filed by the J-2 dependent by April 15th if wages were earned in the previous calendar year
- Information on tax filing and resources are available at iss.wisc.edu. ISS advisors are unable to provide tax advice.
